ait technical meetings

introduction

now within its 10th year ait is the one-stop shop membership organisation for the open exchange of innovation, technological advancement and agile working practices for U.K. I.T. professionals, working within accountancy.

technical meetings are an opportunity for member suppliers and new companies to network with accountancy professionals, exchange innovative ideas and present new and exciting developments in their own sphere of operation.

only suppliers presenting at these meetings may attend, thereby ensuring the audience is relevant and focused. ait works closely with each of the selected partners to ensure every supplier can make the best of their day, and that presentations are applicable to the audience; the audience has a strong technical bias and welcomes presentations and discussions that provide detail on the technical aspects of the service or products being described.

In addition to technical meetings, ait also host an annual conference in september; this event is an even greater opportunity to meet with accountancy professionals over a two-day period. the september conference is the pinnacle of the hard work ait has spent in bringing together member firms, member suppliers as well as new friends and colleagues; details of the september conference can be found on www.aituk.co.uk
